CHRISTMAS IN THE OLD COUNTRY

Special Arrangements

A visit to the Old Country is something that a great number of people are giving thought to at this season of the year, and many have already made plans to reach their friends in time for the Christmas and New Year season.

Canadian Pacific Steamships are deservedly popular for this trip and to give extra special accommodation for those who are going overseas this season, the Canadian Pacific Railway has arranged for a special train to connect with the S. S. "Montcalm" sailing from St. John, Tuesday, December 12th. Through tourist sleepers will be operated from Edmonton at 10.00 p. m. Thursday, December 7th and from Calgary at 1.35 a. m. Friday December 8th, making connection with this special train leaving Winnipeg 9.20 a. m. December 9th.

Special tourist sleepers from Calgary, Edmonton, via regular trains will also be operated in connection with the sailings from St. John of the S. S. "Montrose" on December 1st, S. S. "Victorian" December 7th, S. S. "Melita" December 9th, S. S. "Metagm" December 15th. All these tourist sleepers run right to the ship's side, no changes no inconvenience. They are the gang plan to the steamer.

Bar B Ranch, Carbon City,
July 31st, 19—.

What a wretched fit of the blues I must have had on Wednesday! Fortunately for the retention of my self-respect, I have ever since been too busy to be dismal, the days have not been half long enough to hold all the new impressions.

I woke bright and early Thursday morning, feeling fit as if, after all, there might be worse places than Carbon City. And when I had eaten my breakfast and written to Mother and Mrs. Arnold and made a trial of my skill on the "Doo-bell" piano, I felt that there might be very much worse places. By the way, Mrs. Bingham tells me that the sleep-dispelling pianist is a well-educated but rather dissipated young Englishman, a "remittance man," Paget by name. He is our nearest neighbour, and comes often to Mr. Bingham for advice regarding the management of his ranch. The advice, Mrs. Bingham adds, is never followed, and he is in a fair way to lose the money he has foolishly invested in an unnecessarily expensive outfit.

If what follows is not proof positive of my innate stupidity and my complete disregard of the laws of coincidence, then I am no judge of such matters.

Mrs. Bingham, Sunny, and I sat in the parlour after breakfast, waiting for Mr. Bingham to come and tell us when he would be ready to leave for the ranch. I was reading when I heard Mr. Bingham's voice from the hall, and I did not look up until Sunny shouted, "Oh, Mother, that's Uncle Don talking!" Then I looked up, just in time to see her rush through the door, dropping her beloved doll as she ran. In a moment she returned, perched proudly on the shoulder of . . . Don Livingstone!!!

The thought of the shilling I nearly gave him filled my mind so completely that I scarcely heard Mrs. Bingham as she introduced him. Of course he is not Mrs. Bingham's brother, as I had supposed from Sunny's constant chatter about "Uncle Don," but Mr. Bingham's partner, and merely adopted by Sunny as I am!

Due, no doubt, to the fact that he had the upper hand, Mr. Livingstone did not seem to be the least bit disconcerted, and there was a noticeable twinkle in his eye as he asked me if this were my first visit to the West. Humiliating as is the thought, I am forced to believe that his apparent embarrassment on that former occasion was not embarrassment at all, but well-concealed amusement. I have a presentiment that he is going to need discipline; I do not approve of calm politeness accompanied by a twinkle. I was very cool and very dignified, slightly bored in fact, if one were to judge by my deportment. And I suppose Mary knew all the time who "Uncle Don" was. Revenge will be sweet.

At half past nine we left the town. The horses that came prancing up to the hotel door must have been closely related to those that tried to climb the elevator at Elba, but Sunny was delighted to see them, so I concluded that they could not be quite so murderous as they looked.

"Mother, can't I please sit in the front seat with Uncle Don?" coaxed Sunny. "And you come, too, Auntie Elinor, so's I can tell you just as soon as we see the house. I wonder if David will come to meet me. Do you think he will, Uncle Don?"

"Sure he will," replied that self-possessed young man in answer to the last question; "he promised me faithfully last night that he would wait for us at the first gate." Then he added, "Perhaps Auntie Elinor would rather sit with her back to the horses—English people are like that, you know."

The check of him. "Thank you," I said freezingly. "Auntie Elinor" (and didn't I emphasize it!) "would much rather stay with Mrs. Bingham."

Going in a south-westerly direction from the town, we followed the well-worn trail mile after mile, over plain and through valley. Once we frightened a mother-wolf and her litter of woolly cubs; another time a cynical-looking eagle flattered up ahead of us; and once we saw in the distance a large flock of sheep watched over by a solitary herdsman.

In one valley I noticed that the "cut-banks" were streaked with black, and Mr. Bingham, in response to my remark regarding the strange marble-like appearance, told me that the black streaks were outcroppings of seams of coal, and pointed to a place farther along the canyon where a mine-shaft could be dimly seen. A "cut-bank" is, presumably, a place where some prehistoric glacial or other torrent has torn away the face of a hill and left a cleanly cut bank as steep and smooth as the side of a house—an excellent place in which to study geological strata.

When I finally saw a house, ten miles out of Carbon City, I felt as I am sure Columbus must have felt when he sighted land. This house, by the way, is the only one between Carbon City and the Bar B.

"Is that a ranch?" I asked. "No," replied Mrs. Bingham with a strange emphasis; "that is a farm. We'll call there, for I have some books and magazines for Mrs. Carroll."

"A farm?" I repeated. "I did not know that there were farms in this part of the country."

"There should not be," Mrs. Bingham answered. And then she told me the history of the Carrolls.

"They are English, of good family, and used to all the refinements if not the luxuries of life. But two years ago a 'land shark,' to use Mrs. Bingham's phrase, combined business and pleasure in a visit to the Old Country, and while there persuaded Mr. Carroll to sink all his capital in this so-called farm. He enlarged upon the cheapness of the land and the healthfulness of the warm Alberta winters, but he omitted all mention of the fact that two-thirds of the land was boulder-strewn river bottom, and that an exceedingly light rainfall made farming next to impossible. And he did not tell them that the 'good house' was a two-roomed shack, with no floor and a sod roof.

It is easy to say that Mr. Carroll should have made enquiries into the record of the man with whom he was dealing, but he is apparently very impractical—at any rate, they are here, too proud to ask or accept assistance, and absolutely penniless except for a small annuity belonging to Mrs. Carroll. Of course as soon as they found that they had been tricked they tried to cancel the agreement and to have their payment refunded, but the agent had "skipped the country" and has not been heard of since.

It made me feel positively wretched to see the place. Mrs. Carroll came to the door as we drove up, and invited us to go in just as if her miserable shack had been a mansion. But she seemed to be relieved when Mrs. Bingham said that we would not get out of the wagon, as we had only a few minutes to stay. Then Mrs. Bingham introduced me, saying that I was from England and that I was to spend the winter at the ranch. "From England," Mrs. Carroll repeated slowly, and I hope I shall never again see an expression of sadness such as crossed her face as she spoke. Mr.

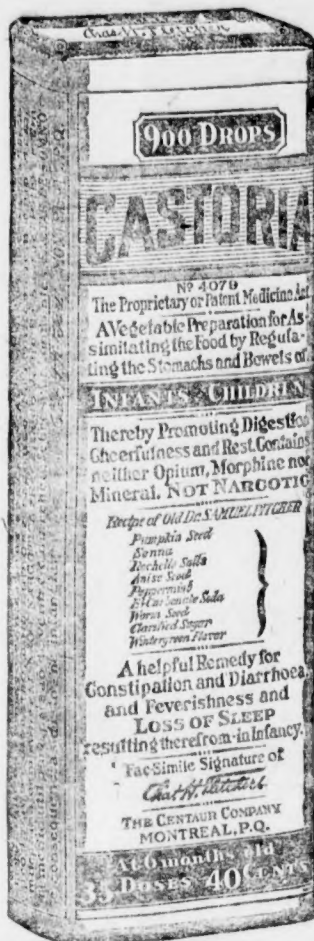

Some More Truths.

WOULD you use a steam shovel to move a pebble? Certainly not. Implements are built according to the work they have to do.

Would you use a grown-up's remedy for your baby's ills? Certainly not. Remedies are prepared according to the work THEY have to do.

All this is preliminary to reminding you that Fletcher's Castoria was sought out, found and is prepared solely as a remedy for Infants and Children. And let this be a warning against Substitutes, Counterfeits and the Just-as-good stuff that may be all right for you in all your strength, but dangerous for the little babe.

All the mother-love that lies within your heart cries out to you: Be true to Baby. And being true to Baby you will keep in the house remedies specially prepared for babies as you would a baby's food, hairbrush, toothbrush or sponge.

Headache

Recurring headaches usually come from an exhaustion of the nervous system, and they do not disappear until the vigor of the nerve cells is restored by such up-building treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Temporary relief by use of powders is often obtained at an enormous expense to the nervous system and the general health.

Get the nerves right and the headaches will not return.

Mrs. W. J. Pearse, Nunn St., Cobourg, Ont., writes:

"My system became run-down and I suffered greatly with pain in my head. This was so severe that I would have to bind a cloth tightly about my head so that I could get my work done. A friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and after taking the first box I found quite an improvement in my condition. I continued using it until I had taken about seven boxes, and they strengthened and built up my system splendidly, completely relieving the pain in my head."

Carroll did not appear. I have formed an opinion, not so much from what Mrs. Bingham said as from what she left unsaid, that he has allowed himself to brood over his bad fortune, and that if he could only be persuaded to exert himself matters might be greatly improved. They have one child, a little boy of about Sunny's age.

In ten minutes we "hit the trail" again, and again drove mile after mile over plain and through valley. I was beginning to feel as if my back were six inches too long, and to speculate upon how many layers of skin would peel off my nose, when suddenly Sunny called out, "Shut your eyes, Auntie Elinor, and don't open them until I tell you to."

I closed my eyes obediently, glad enough to rest them from the blazing sun. Promptly came the second order.

"Now, Auntie Elinor, look!"

I looked. And far away to the south-west the jagged line of the Rockies broke into the blue of the sky. So far away that their natural colours were not discernible, they seemed to be made of shimmering steel and mother-of-pearl, so beautiful in their unexpectedness that I could not speak.

"That big one over there by himself is Old Chief; he belongs to the Yankees, but I just love him," volunteered Sunny.

I looked until my eyes ached, then rested them and looked again. Shall I ever tire of looking, I wonder? Need I say that the remainder of our drive was not monotonous?

David was waiting for us at the first gate. Never was a small dog so greatly excited. He wagged with joy all the way from the tip of his nose to his rudimentary tail, ran around and around the wagon barking like mad, and was only silenced when Mr. Livingstone got out and lifted him to the seat beside Sunny. He is a jolly-looking little dog, with a rakish black spot around one eye a la Chamberlain, and a trick of running on three legs—"to excite sympathy," Mr. Livingstone explains.

It was one o'clock when we reached the house. Lee, the Chinese cook, welcomed us warmly—warmly for an Oriental, I mean—and conducted us to the dining-room, where, as the Suffolk Argus would say, a sumptuous repast awaited us. If my dairy farm proves a failure, I shall go into the newspaper business.

Farming Second Industry In B.C.

Production of the Forest Leads With a Good Margin

Agriculture, with a production of $59,742,994, was the second industry in British Columbia, in 1921, according to a report issued by Hon. E. Barrow, Minister of Agriculture. Production shows a shrinkage of 13.39 per cent. in value from the preceding year, owing to decreased values. Forest products lead the province, with a value of $64,970,000, while mineral production had a value of $28,066,641 for the same period. The fruit crop for 1921 was the largest on record, its value to the producers being $6,504,350, an increase of 15 per cent. over the value of the 1920 crop. In dairy products there was an increase of $46,558 pounds of butter, while egg production increased by 200,677 dozen.

The area planted to fodder crops was 6,555 acres more than in 1920, but the total value of fodder crops was $4,080,432 less, owing to the lower value of the hay crop. The honey production was 309,074 pounds, valued at $89,631, against $67,701 for the previous year.

Saskatchewan's Agricultural Production

Total Value of Production for 1921 Was $444,937,073

The total value of agricultural production in Saskatchewan in 1921 was $444,937,073, made up of grain crops $210,732,073; field crops $14,965,000; farm products $32,914,436, and livestock $186,326,254. Livestock in 1921 created a record in number and value, being: 1,179,389 horses; 1,563,332 cattle; 188,021 sheep; and 432,776 swine, in the province. The total amount of wheat produced in the province in 1921 was 201,347,483 bushels from 13,556,708 acres, the greatest of any season in the province's history with the single exception of 1915.

Husband and Wife Nearly Dead With CHOLERA

The chief symptoms of cholera are vomiting, and purgings occur either simultaneously or alternately, and are usually sudden and very violent, and the matter ejected from the stomach has a bilious appearance and a nasty bitter taste.

On the first symptoms appearing, Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry should be taken, and the trouble checked before it becomes serious.

Mrs. Isaac Smith, Campbellton, N.B., writes:—"We have been using Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for cholera. My husband and I were pretty nearly dead with it until we started to use your medicine, and thanks to it, we have found great relief, and are recommending it to all our friends."

77 years' reputation stands behind "Dr. Fowler's," therefore you are not experimenting with some new and untried remedy when you get it.

After we had been introduced to the shopkeeper, his wife—who is also postmistress—the clerk, and two farmers and their wives, Mrs. Mills gave her order, while Mary and I listened respectfully to a heated discussion which had for its subject the various virtues and vices of the Roblin Government.

"I tell you what," said one man, "the Agricultural College is the only good thing the Conservatives ever gave us—don't talk telephones to me!"

This reminded me that I had left Winnipeg without seeing the far-famed Agricultural College.

Mrs. Mills had now finished her purchasing, and after she had asked for her mail and left word for the Fiske's man to call for me this evening, we proceeded on our way.

"Another of them machinery duns," remarked our guide in a resigned tone of voice as she sorted out her letters. "An' three letters for Mr. Hartford—two of them looks like they might be from ladies. Queer, ain't it, that he never got married; an' him such a fine-looking man?"

"I hope you will pardon me if I am rude, Mrs. Mills," said I, "but would you mind telling me what a 'machinery dun' is? I do not think that I have ever heard the phrase until now."

"A machinery dun," she began, and I knew instantly that I had blundered upon an unpleasant subject, is a written request to put up or shut up. Them darn drummers comes around in the spring an' sells the farmers a whole caboodle of machinery they could just as well do without, an' takes notes due at harvest time. Well, perhaps when fall comes the crop has been bad or you can't get cars to ship your grain, an' then the firm begins to write polite letters threatening to seize everything you've got if you don't pay up immediate. If we ever get votes for women in this country, I'll bet my bottom dollar that there'll be a law made so that men can't buy machinery without their wives agree to it. It's a different story if a woman wants something to make her work easier!"

"I beg your pardon," I said as soon as she paused for breath. "I should not have mentioned the subject had I known that it was one on which you felt so strongly."

"Oh, it don't bother me particular," she replied, "except that I do hate to see men make such fools of themselves, an' then their wives an' kids have got to suffer for it. You'll be wondering how I happened to get a dunning letter, so I'll just tell you how it come about. I like to have somebody to talk to, but these Elba women are such awful gossips that I hate to say a word to them. Sometimes I get so full up that I feel fit to bust right out into high-stericks."

"You'd probably never guess it, but I was only married three years ago. Reginald an' Percival ain't my children at all, though I'm just as fond of the poor kids as if they were."

"About five years ago Pa died back east, an' being as I had lived on the same forty acres all my life, I was so sick of it that I just sold every stick an' come west for a visit to my brother in Winnipeg, an' later on I come out here to see John and Arabella Fiske."

"Mr. Mills had a farm in these parts then, an' him being laid up with a broke collar-bone, Arabella used to go over pretty often an' red up the house for him. He was a real interesting man to talk to—English, an' they do say that he has some letters to his name—but that shiftless! I used to be so sorry for them poor motherless kids that I'd like to have cried—they were just growing up like young Indians; an' when he got better an' asked me would I marry him, I said yes. The folks around here says that an Ontario old maid will marry anything that calls itself a man; but, as true as I live, it weren't to hear myself called Missis that I married Mr. Mills, but because I'm that tenderhearted I can't bear to see them handless men trying to fend for themselves an' bring up kids."

"Well, things went fine for a while. Mr. Mills was always a perfect gentleman, I'll say that for him. But one day there come a letter from the American Implement Company saying as how they'd heard that Mr. Mills had married a woman with money, an' would I do anything towards paying up his debts for machinery—enough to run three farms, there was. An' if we didn't pay up at once they'd take back the goods an' foreclose the mortgage on the farm. An' that man had told me before ever we was married that he hadn't no debts to speak of, an' that he had a clear title to his farm!"

"That fixed me. I wrote back to the company an' paid for the buggy we was using, but I told them that's all I would do, an' that there wasn't nothing on the place they could seize except Mills himself, an' they could have him an' welcome. An' then me an' Mr. Mills had what you might call a heart-to-heart talk, an' the result was that one day he cleared out an' went to Winnipeg, an' I ain't seen nor heard of him since. The firm foreclosed the mortgage an' of course we had to get off the farm, so I bought this here boarding-house, an' with the help of the Lord an' plenty of elbow-grease I've managed to keep things going an' them two poor kids is going to have their chance."

There were tears in the good woman's eyes as she finished. I shall never laugh at her grammar again. But the mixture of tragedy and comedy, philosophy and common-sense, is rather disconcerting.

"You'll both be thinking that I'm an awful talker," she said after a short pause. "But I've got one thing more to say, Miss Eliot, an' you too, Miss Arnold. If ever you have a notion of getting married to a man, just go to the Land Titles Office an' have a search made to see if his property is clear. It'll only cost you a dollar or so, an' it's worth it."

After we had returned to the "Palace" I wrote letters until tea-time, while Mary went in search of the twins, found them—digging ashworms in the back garden, ugh!—and made them her willing slaves for life. Mary "has a way with her" that makes me break the Tenth Commandment.

While we were having tea, Mr. Hartford told us that it was his custom to hold Evensong every evening. This custom scandalizes the good people of Elba, who consider it a weak imitation of the forms and ceremonies of the Roman Catholic Church. (It has just occurred to me that, so far as my feminine mind can grasp the situation, the average Canadian looks upon the Roman Catholic Church as a political party rather than as a religious body.) So when tea was over Mary and I, at Mary's suggestion, helped Mrs. Mills to wash the dishes and then we took her to church with us.

Mr. Hartford tells us that he has not seen a nicer village church in Manitoba than St. George's, so perhaps a description of it will not be out of place. To begin with, it is very tiny—a hundred people would fill it to overflowing, I am sure. To a height of four or five feet the walls are of stone, and above that they are covered with shingles stained a warm brown colour. The green roof has a low pitch, and the eaves project, the Special Care of Baby.

That Baby should have a bed of its own all are agreed. Yet it is more reasonable for an infant to sleep with grown-ups than to use a man's medicine in an attempt to regulate the delicate organism of that same infant. Either practice is to be shunned. Neither would be tolerated by specialists in children's diseases.

Your Physician will tell you that Baby's medicine must be prepared with even greater care than Baby's food.

A Baby's stomach when in good health is too often disarranged by improper food. Could you for a moment, then, think of giving to your ailing child anything but a medicine especially prepared for Infants and Children? Don't be deceived.

Make a mental note of this:—It is important, Mothers, that you should remember that to function well, the digestive organs of your Baby must receive special care. No Baby is so abnormal that the desired results may be had from the use of medicines primarily prepared for grown-ups.

latter feature giving the building a homely, settled appearance painfully lacking in the usual Canadian church architecture. Most Canadian roofs seem to be half a size smaller than the buildings they cover. The inside of the church is very plain, but all the furnishings are of good quality and in good taste. I cannot become reconciled to the clear glass windows, but there is something to be said in their favour when the evening sunlight floods all the building.

I slept without rocking that night, and dreamed that I was in our own church at home. Mr. Hartford was reading the lessons; while Father sat in the front pew and beamed approval. Arthur, meanwhile was engaged in the laudable occupation of carving our initials—his and mine—on the chancel rail, and I was in agony lest Mr. Hartford should discover what he was doing.

Mary, whose train leaves in an hour, is hovering around, and I think from her expression that she has a few last words of advice to administer.

No, I do not wish that I were going back to Winnipeg with her!

Exploring for Weather Data

Italian Explorer Will Establish
Observatories 20,000 Feet Above
Sea Level

Students of meteorology will learn with eager anticipation the news of the projected expedition, by the well-known Italian explorer, Dr. Filippo de Filippi, to the great upland plateau of Central Asia, the so-called "roof of the world."

Dr. Filippi intends to establish a series of meteorological observatories at a height of nearly 20,000 feet above sea level, and the expected records should be of the utmost value to science.

Until a few years ago hardly any knowledge of the atmospheric conditions which control the weather could be obtained except near the surface, and a few observatories on mountain peaks gave us all our data for the upper air.

Now frequent observations are made by means of small, unmanned balloons, which occasionally reach a height of from 15 to 20 miles; but we have very few regular series of records at heights of more than 10,000 feet.

Which is Wrong?
A question often asked is, What is wrong with the church? It might as pertinently be queried, however, What is wrong with the people? The church of today in various ways, appears to be doing its utmost to fulfil its mission, while many people exhibit either the perversity of spoiled children or the cynicism attached to hardened unbelief.—Hamilton Spectator.

A Dangerous Practice
Many children lose their lives every year from tetanus, or lockjaw, caused by stepping on the points of nails thoughtlessly left protruding from boards which are thrown down and left where barefoot children and children with worn thin shoe soles can step on them.

It only takes a few minutes to take the nails out of boards.
Better be safe than sorry.

Liver Pains

Pains under the shoulder blades tell of liver derangements.

Other indications are sallow complexion, indigestion, constipation, biliousness and bilious headaches.

The quickest way to arouse the liver to healthful action is by use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Continued use will insure lasting relief, correct the whole digestive system and purify the blood.

Mrs. Wm. Barten, Hanover, Ont., writes:

"For some time I suffered from liver trouble. There was a hard, bearing-down feeling in my back which I could not get rid of. Some one advised me to try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I did so, and found them excellent. The dragging feeling in my back disappeared and I felt much benefited generally. I have great confidence in Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and always keep them on hand for general use."
